3/16/2020

Like many of you, we are paying close attention to the evolving COVID-19 situation locally and nationwide. The safety of the children we serve, our volunteers and our staff is of paramount importance. We are determined to take prudent measures to help keep people safe, while attempting to avoid panic and continuing to fulfill our critical mission. We're adjusting our practices and protocols to prioritize safety while still supporting our essential advocacy for children in need. As the situation is constantly evolving, we will continue to evaluate our practices and response and provide updates here.

Child Visits

For our volunteer advocates and staff, the following changes will be made to our standard child visit practices:

- Effective immediately we are suspending all child and family visits.
- We are requiring weekly contact via a video-conferencing tool during the hiatus of in-person visits to verbal-aged children, and to caregivers if children are too young to speak. In the event a child is too young for video or phone calls, please use video conferencing when possible to see the children to ensure they are okay while you are speaking to the caregiver. If video is not possible, phone calls will work. If you need assistance meeting this requirement, please let your supervisor know and we will help you.
- These restrictions will remain in effect through 4/3/2020 and we will reevaluate and communicate with you all again before that time.

The fear and anxiety that many of us are feeling may only be compounded for the children and youth we serve who have also been affected by trauma and may trigger trauma-associated thoughts/behaviors in/from the child or create additional tension in the child's home or placement. Therefore, it is vital to have eyes on the children we serve in any way possible to help them stay calm and connected. Not communicating with a child in these most stressful, difficult times when connections are most valuable could undo all of the work done to create a relationship.

It is vital for the volunteer to maintain regular (weekly) contact with the child either through the use of Skype, Zoom, Google Hangouts, or FaceTime (or other non-video tools if needed), especially where kids are in congregate care settings, such as shelters or Residential Treatment Centers.
